Max Target 19 Sulphide Showings 1000 m x 700 m

- A brownfield drill ready opportunity with over 3 million dollars of exploration expenditures .
- Geological similarity to economically successful Barrick Gold's Eskay Creek Mine and Gold Corps Equity Silver Mine.
- A professional geologist report states "the property is believed to have excellent potential for this precious -metal-rich class of deposit" and recommends a systematic 2,500 meter 15 hole diamond drilling campaign.
- The property is favorably located with road access 40 kilometers (25 miles) from the mining center of Smithers North Central British Columbia. Smithers hosts a regional airport and is the home to mining supply companies and mining personnel for the area.
- The project is favorably viewed by the mining community with much anticipation on the drill campaign.
- Properties of the same geological characteristics have become legendary in British Columbia mining lore.
- Numerous grades from the Max/Knoll showings have similar or higher results than the Equity Silver mine average production grade.

Schematic (Max Target not to scale) of the Price Creek Property a shallow-marine exhalative volcanogenic sulphide setting.

Jaxon's interpretation is that properties previous exploration programs have not tested the potential for Barrick Golds'-Eskay Creek Mine and Gold Corps-Equity Silver Mine styles of high grade silver and gold deposits at the Price Creek Propety.
